

I believe that as an American, our freedom depends on our receiving unbiased and truthful new coverage. In the past few months, I have been getting the feeling that I am living in a third world country where everything that we hear and see is carefully monitored by a small and powerful minority that is determined to keep the public out of the loop. We need to maintain the controls we have in order to see that there is enough variety of opinion in the media to maintain democracy.

Sincerely

Donald A. Bowden
